Kenneth T. Whitby Award

2022 Recipient of the Kenneth T. Whitby Award

Tran Nguyen

Tran Nguyen is an Assistant Professor of Environmental Chemistry at University of California – Davis.

“Tran (“magician in the laboratory””) was a phenomenal student in terms of research ingenuity, productivity and enthusiasm for doing science and educating others.”

“She has published nearly 50 peer reviewed papers, given many invited talks and has provided service to AAAR as Chair of the Aerosol Chemistry working group.”

“Her papers have been of the highest caliber, and represented significant (not incremental!) advances in aerosol chemistry.”

“Tran is a leader in the field of aerosol chemistry and she is incredibly skilled in the development of mechanistic understandings of processes that are important for both atmospheric aerosol particles as well as health/indoor aerosol particles. Her work is original and inspirational for me.”
